

FUNSTON CALLS FOR LARGE PART OF STATE MILITIA

MORE TROOPS AT ONCE FOR BORDER DUTY

GENERAL FUNSTON REQUESTS WAR DEPARTMENT TO SEND HIM BIG FORCE OF NATIONAL GUARDSMEN.

TO ORDER ENTRAINMENT

Secretary Baker Will Send Telegraphic Orders to Certain State Forces to Entrain As Soon As Possible.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
San Antonio, Texas, June 20.—General Funston today requested the war department to send to him as soon as possible a large part of the United States National Guard to be stationed along the Mexican border, from Brownsville to the Pacific coast. He did not make public the exact number of men requested, but for enough to provide protection for order on the border. He also withheld the names of the units of the United States National Guard which he thought admitting that a considerable number would be mobilized at San Antonio reservation.

Washington, June 20.—General Funston's request for national guardsmen reached the war department and resulted in telegraphic requests for the entrainment of forces of certain state militia. Orders for entrainment ready for service were expected tonight.

Hunger Swells Mexican Army.
El Paso, June 20.—Hunger is swelling the army that General Carranza is recruiting in Mexico in preparation for the possible hostilities with the United States, according to stories brought home by Americans from the interior.

One of the arrivals, an American business man in Mexico City, estimated 25,000 Carranza troops in Chihuahua. These forces are distributed throughout the country, 4,000 are stationed in Juarez and 5,000 in Alameda, north of Chihuahua, which is ninety-three miles south of El Paso. The remainder are stationed in the surrounding Mexican territory on the southern railroad south of General Pershing's line.

Recruiting Continues.
Pittsburgh, Pa., June 20.—Recruiting officers of the 15th Infantry and first field artillery of the Pennsylvania National Guard had the most gratifying results.

The city council passed a resolution keeping all the residents on the pay roll the entire time of their service and many factories and firms went ahead making out their own lists in steps to this direction.

Beekman, N. Y., June 20.—Governor Whitman was ready today when the first national guardsmen arrived for the period of training which will train 15,000 or more men in the next two weeks for the Mexican border.

A field bakery with an output of 15,000 loaves of bread and wells designed to supply 4,000 gallons of water daily were ready for use.

BREAD RIOTS IN GREECE; MOBILIZATION IS HELD UP
Athens, via London, Eng., June 20.—Bread riots are reported at Piræus, Aegina, Mytilene and Agionio. The Greek general staff has been unable to resume the mobilization of the three army corps owing to the blockade which has been holding up ships.

WISCONSIN GUARDS ASSEMBLE THURSDAY AT CAMP DOUGLAS

Special Precautions Will Be Taken in Matter of Sanitation—To Vaccinate for Typhoid.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 20.—Adjutant General Orlando Holway issued an order to the different branches of the Wisconsin guards last night for their assembling at Camp Douglas, Thursday. While the order was purely perfunctory, it makes official the statement of early Monday designating Thursday as the date for the gathering of the troops on the military reservation. Eighteen trains will bring the troops, the earliest to start being the men at West Superior. General Holway said today that the greatest precautions would be taken in the matter of sanitation. It has always been claimed that more soldiers died of disease than from bullets. A corps of expert physicians accompanied every Wisconsin regiment. Vaccination against typhoid is offered free of charge. Practically all of the members of the guards were vaccinated against typhoid some time ago. Bread, crumbs, coffee beans, bones, etc., must be deposited in receptacles provided for each company. Violation of these rules by throwing refuse on the ground is the cause for trouble and probably will result in being summoned before court.

Forfeiting the possibility of the coming trouble Adjutant General Holway has practically all of his orders prepared in advance, necessitating only the copying. The proclamation of Governor Philipp was prepared some three weeks ago so that it could be quickly published in case of emergency. The same is true of all the other general orders. Early in April there was issued a train schedule that would bring all of the troops into Camp Douglas within a few hours. These things being true the call has been handled without confusion.

While the cost to the state for the pay and maintenance of the troops will be about $3,000 a day, it is expected that the federal government will not delay in taking the troops over and reimbursing the state, as was done in the Spanish-American war.

Recruiting at Oshkosh.
Oshkosh, Wis., June 20.—The "B" and "F" companies of the Wisconsin National Guards of this city expect to recruit 150 men before they will leave for Camp Douglas.

Alfred Miller of this city, was to go to Mexico as a driver of one of the Army automobiles at $100 a month, but when it was found he was already engaged to go to Mexico, he was placed back there at $15 a month.

Whistles of Oshkosh factories will be blown Thursday morning as a farewell demonstration to those going to Camp Douglas.

NATIONAL GUARD GETS CHANCE TO SHOW WHAT STUFF IT'S MADE OF WHEN BAKER CALLS OUT MILITIA TO DEFEND THE BORDER

The debate over the efficiency of the national guard is to be settled by that organization itself, now that Secretary Baker has ordered the organized militia of every state to mobilize. Brigadier General A. L. Mills is chief of the militia division of the army general staff, and as such is playing an important part in the mobilization.

GUERNSEY MEETING AT KELLOGG FARM IS WELL ATTENDED

Over Hundred at Gathering Hear Prominent Guernsey Authority and Other Noted Speakers.

Members of the Rock County Guernsey Breeders' Association and their families, over a hundred strong, held an enthusiastic meeting at the Kellogg farm today. This was the first big meeting of the new organization, and from a standpoint of success it was that in every detail.

The morning broke bright and sunny and farmers from all over the county were in attendance. The ladies had furnished well filled hampers and at the first sitting at the picnic dinner held in the big barn over one hundred did justice to the meal. Big dishes of strawberries, fresh from the field and cream, were served to every guest by Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg and a bevy of farm wives and daughters.

The afternoon program opened about 1:30 o'clock with a musical number. Frank Dunn, Stanley Howard and C. E. Bearmore, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. were the singers and were accompanied in their renditions by Miss Anna Bearmore.

C. L. Hill of Rosendale, the foremost Guernsey authority in the United States, ex-president of the National Guernsey Association and a prominent member of the state organization, was the chief speaker at the meeting. Mr. Hill covered briefly the advantages of breeding this class of dairy cattle and then took up a description of the island of Guernsey, the southwest coast of England.

Although only twenty-five miles square and with but about ten square miles of fertile land it gives royal income to more than forty thousand people. The raising of cattle is but a sideline, vegetable truck, flowers and fruits being the source of wealth. Grapes raised here bring as much as three and four dollars per pound.

B. West of the high school agriculture department spoke on the advantages of the boy on the farm. Prof. H. C. Buell told of the county breeders' organization which has been in existence for the past few months. W. J. Douglas of Beloit also spoke.

Dr. W. A. Munn is president of the body. Theodore A. Clark is vice-president. J. A. McComb is treasurer and E. M. Erickson, secretary. The executive committee had charge of the arrangements of the picnic meeting today.

EXPECT COMPROMISE ON SENATOR HATTON

Progressive Convention Will Probably Choose New London, Man, to Head Ticket.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., June 22.—The probability of a compromise on William H. Hatton of New London as a candidate for governor to be endorsed by the conference which convenes here Thursday afternoon, seems all the more probable as time passes. It is claimed that Senator Hatton has always been a close friend of Gov. McGovern and the Milwaukeean might retire in his favor. Moreover, it is pointed out that Hatton is well known to the Wisconsin electorate and has the nucleus of an organization to start with.

The friends of Senator Boshard and Former Senator Sanborn are by no means forsaken but the entire spirit of the men who have already arrived seem to favor a "getting together."

The conference will be called at two o'clock Thursday afternoon in the university gymnasium. The meeting will be called by G. S. Goodland of Racine, who will then turn the gavel over to Senator Sanborn, who will sound the keynote speech. E. N. Warner of Madison, a former assemblyman and a close friend of Gov. McGovern, will act as sergeant-at-arms.

Even aside from the governorship there are liable to be many complications over the other state offices. So far no one has appeared to contest the candidacy of Lieutenant Gov. E. F. Dittmar of Baraboo. For secretary of state there are two progressive candidates and possibly three. John S. Donald, the present incumbent, will ask for another term. A. T. Torge, Madison, has already announced himself as a candidate and C. E. Shafter, Eau Claire, is known to be in the assembly, is prominently mentioned.

Sol Levitan of Madison is calling the attention of the delegates to his long progressive record and wants to run for state treasurer. H. Emerson is also mentioned. State Treasurer Johnson will be a candidate for re-election, but will not ask the progressive endorsement. Emerson is known in the state as former deputy state treasurer and with the banking department.

Apparently there is no opposition to Attorney General W. C. Owen.

SHERIDAN'S RACE HORSE DROPS DEAD AT TRACK

Mary Sheridan, the five-year-old pacer, owned by Sheridan Bros., dropped dead Monday afternoon while racing around the Park Association track at a moderate rate of speed. The prize mare was being driven by Homer Emerson, and the driver reported the horse swerved a bit and dropped to the track. It is believed that a broken blood vessel caused the death of the horse. Mary Sheridan last year went the mile in 2:13 and was being trained for the racing at the track here. The horse was capable of going a mile under two, and only last week, Mr. Sheridan refused an offer of seven hundred dollars.

IMPORTANT MATTERS BEFORE PARLIAMENT

British Legislature Will Seek Information on Several Great Events As Session Opens.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, England, June 20.—Matters of great importance await the consideration of parliament, which assembles today. Since the recess of parliament weeks ago there has been three happenings of great importance, namely: The naval battle off Jutland, the allies' economic conference, and the death of Lord Kitchener, which necessitates the election of a new war minister.

The legislature will want much information regarding these happenings. The problem of a war with Greece and the Irish problem provide two other good questions for the English parliament.

Repulse Attack at Hill 321.
Paris, June 20.—German attacks made on the French last night northwest of Hill No. 321 were repulsed by the fire of the French machine guns, according to an official statement today by the war office.

The Germans were heavily bombarding the French regions of Vaux, Chaptre, and Chantancourt. The text of the statement was as follows: "To the right bank of the river Meuse the Germans delivered three attacks on our positions northwest of Hill No. 321, but all their efforts were broken by the activities of our machine guns and our curtain of fire."

In the Vaux region a surprise attack of the enemy upon Sapin, in the region of Michael Bach, was also repulsed.

JANESVILLE MAN IS FAVORED AS LEADER OF BADGER GUARDS

Capt. L. C. Richardson May be Choice of High Officials For Brigadier General of Wisconsin Militia.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., June 20.—High officials of the Wisconsin National Guard are known to favor Captain L. C. Richardson, U. S. A., of Janesville, for the commission as Brigadier General to lead the Wisconsin National Guard now being mobilized for the Mexican question.

Captain Richardson is a graduate from West Point in 1895, a graduate from the Army school in 1909 and also a graduate of the Army staff college in 1912. He has had considerable experience and service on the border and has just lately returned to the Wisconsin National Guard.

Reports from the cities of the state received today, are that many men have enlisted in the last twenty-four hours.

Special enlistments have been made in Milwaukee, Manitowish, Sheboygan, Eau Claire, Wausau and Menomonie which are large.

A telegram from Beloit requested that 100 enlistment blanks be sent immediately for use there.

Adjutant General Holway called upon the government to furnish uniforms and supplies to the men enlisted between the peace and war strength. The organization of national guard has sixty-five men for each company for peace. Wisconsin has maintained eighty-one men, and with the inventory it is expected that each company will average 100 to 150 men. Governor Philipp has requested that the government supply 1400 mules and horses upon the request of Adjutant General called for 875 horses, 540 draft mules and eighty-seven pack mules.

POLICE CHIEF TELLS OF TALK WITH ORPET

Lake Forest Official is Witness for State in Trial of University Student at Waukegan.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Waukegan, June 20.—Walter McQuire, chief of police of Lake Forest, who interviewed the prisoner while in jail, was the first witness today in the trial of William Orpet, on the charge of the murder of Marion Lamber.

"I asked Orpet how Marion fell and he said she fell in the same position in which she was found."

"Did you talk with him," questioned State Attorney Dady.

"Yes, I had asked him if he remembered whether she had been under her arm. He said he had a faint recollection of the fact that she had been under his arm."

A letter was then brought up and the witness identified it as one of the letters he wrote to his friend Otto Peterson to mail on February 8th.

HUNDREDS TO ATTEND PRAIRIE FIELD DAY

Second Annual Community Field Day at Rock Prairie Tomorrow to Attract Many People.

The town of Rock Prairie, Z. McLay in the town of Rock Prairie, will be a busy place tomorrow, as this is the place where the second annual Rock Prairie Community Field Day is being held. The indications today it looks as though the celebration this year would be bigger and better than ever. The committees in charge of the affair were busy all day yesterday in getting the grounds cleared up, mowing the grass and placing the equipment needed for the different games.

A full program has been arranged for the day and will be a gala one for hundreds. Games and contests will be staged, open for both the old and young, women and men. The first matched contest will take place in the afternoon at three o'clock. It will be an indoor baseball contest between two Y. M. C. A. groups. A baseball contest between the married men and the Rock Prairie Y. M. C. A. group is scheduled to take place in the morning. At noon a picnic dinner will be served and all planning to attend should bring well-filled baskets.

The program will include contests of all kinds for every one. One of the main attractions that the management have secured is the Emerald Grove and Rock Prairie baseball team. These teams will meet in the latter part of the afternoon. With Miss Florence McLay in the lead, all the girls of Rock Prairie have signed up to take part in the different contests.

The field day committee have extended invitations to many Janesville people and others in different parts of the county. Those who have not received an invitation should plan to come as the celebration is open to all. It is expected that many Janesville people who are former residents of the Rock Prairie Y. M. C. A. group will be present. Secretary Kuhn of the Commercial club and H. S. Lovejoy made arrangements with a number of Janesville auto owners to carry people out to the Rock Prairie Y. M. C. A. group.

At least eight hundred people will be present at the field activities tomorrow. The largest number of young people amounted to nearly this number. The boys of the Prairie will have tents where refreshments will be served and not a thing will be lacking as far as the eating and amusement is concerned. One of the local playground directors has been secured as official starter and referee for the different athletic events.

KELLOGG IN THE LEAD IN SENATORIAL RACE AT MINNESOTA PRIMARIES
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

GRIEVANCES RECITED IN U. S. REPLY

SECRETARY LANSING'S ANSWER TO REQUEST FOR WITHDRAWAL OF TROOPS GIVEN TO CARRANZA ENVOY.

OBLIGATIONS IGNORED

Declares That De Facto Government Has Shown Repeated Evidence of Bad Faith—Failed to Co-operate With United States in Bandit Chase.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, June 20.—The American note rejecting General Carranza's demand for the withdrawal of the United States troops from Mexico and rebuking the Carranza government for the discourteous tone and temper in the last communication, was handed to the Mexican ambassador, Eliseo Arce, today. Its terms leave no doubt that the United States government has approached the end of its patience with Mexican annoyances, but still maintains its original policy of war, only for defense.

Recalls Outrages.
Long continued outrages on the Americans and their property both in Mexico and on the border on American soil are reviewed in the note and warning that the troops will be kept in Mexico until such a time when the "de facto" government will perform the duty which the United States requests, in pursuing the bandits who ought to be arrested and punished by the Mexican government.

It concludes with the statement that if "de facto" government continues to ignore this obligation and carries out their threats to defend its territory by an appeal to arms against the American troops, that grave consequences will follow.

"While this government would deeply regret such a result," says the note, "it cannot retreat from its determination to maintain its national right and perform its duty to prevent further invasion of the territory of the United States, and in removing the peril which the Americans along the international boundary have borne so long."

"I am reluctant to be brought to the conclusion from the circumstances," says Lansing, "that the 'de facto' government is the cause of the crimes committed and the invasion of the United States, and his followers, did not and does not now intend or desire that the outrages should be captured or destroyed by American troops or by request of this government."

Provides for Fugitives.
Special agent Rogers at Mexico City notified the State department today he was starting for a special train to take Americans and other foreigners out of Mexico City to Vera Cruz.

Mr. Rogers stated he would remain at his post.

Mr. Rogers told of the many American demonstrations and parades including a mass meeting in the Mexican capital and of the great sentiment.

No open attacks occurred.
War Spirit Settling.
Multitudes of reports indicate that there is a settling war spirit throughout Mexico and the United States.

This is the result of the emphatic refusal of the United States to withdraw General Pershing's expeditionary forces from Mexico.

This note will become official to General Carranza today, and whether or not the result will mean war depends on the Mexican General Carranza. Civilians of both nations are preparing for it.

Opposing military forces are facing each other on the border regions and mobilization of the national guard is being rushed today.

Carranza Hopes for Peace.
General Carranza, in another speech at Mexico City, has expressed hopes that hostilities may be avoided.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY; RELEASED ON BAIL

Rockford Youth Denies Charge of Carrying Concealed Weapons—Hotel-keeper Signs Bail Bonds.

Harry Church, the nineteen year old Rockford boy arrested for the affair at South Janesville on Sunday, was arraigned today in the municipal court late Monday afternoon on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Through Attorney E. H. Ryan, Church pleaded not guilty and had his case adjourned until Monday, the 26th.

The court set the bail at one hundred dollars. Frank Williams, who, it is said, operated the Railroad hotel at South Janesville, signed the bail bonds. Why Williams became so interested in the case as to sign the minor's bail bonds, is somewhat of a mystery to the police and county jail authorities.

The court accepted the bail bonds as Williams was qualified to file them and Church was released. As Church is a minor, some legal action can be brought against the holders of the honor license of the South Janesville saloons. District Attorney S. G. Dunwiddie was in Madison today and in information regarding such a prosecution could not be obtained.

JANESVILLE MAY BE DESIGNATED FOR A MILITARY UNIT YET

Adjutant General Holway Wires That Present Call Does Not Include Extra Enlistments But Janesville Is Considered.

While Janesville will have no part in the present call for volunteers for the National Guard under the orders that have been issued, Adjutant General Holway has wired to persons interested in the organization of a military unit in this city that Janesville will be considered for the formation of an extra company, either to be mustered into the state guard or utilized with the present guard if ordered out of the state if the state's appointment is increased.

Another interesting feature of the present military activity is the fact that Captain Lorraine T. Richardson, U. S. A., former Janesville resident, now stationed at Madison as inspector of small arms, may be made the brigadiere commander of the Wisconsin brigade, with rank of Brigadier of volunteers, if the entire Wisconsin guard maintains its present brigade organization.

FRED RAU

Already many men working in Janesville have left for their homes where they are members of the state militia companies already ordered in to service. It is expected now that the entire state guard will leave their respective armories on Thursday and final preparations before leaving for the Mexican border. It will cost the state of Wisconsin some seven thousand dollars a day to maintain this camp, the cost of which will be taken over by the federal government as soon as the troops are sworn into the United States service.

Interest in the formation of a military unit in Janesville is very great. There are probably a hundred young men of military age who would enlist if such a company was formed and there are a dozen efficient drill masters, graduates of military schools, former University students, ex-regiments and former national guardsmen who could be utilized at once to whip the recruits into shape.

At the request of the Adjutant General a list of men available for this purpose has been forwarded to Madison and placed on file in case the occasion should come for their service. Prominent among the possible drill masters available are "Captain" Fred Rau, who graduated this past week from St. John's Military Academy, having served as captain of Co. E of that school during his senior year; George Sherman, former First Sergeant of the same school battalion, and Carl Keller, a former trooper in the regular army, Owen Skavlen, University of Wisconsin regiment, Frank Flaherty, Notre Dame Battalion and several former national guardsmen and veterans of the Spanish war.

It is expected that Wisconsin's share in the guard appointment will be seven thousand in all when the new law is put in effect which will mean practically doubling the present guard list. At any event it is expected that if the present guard is ordered out of the state for service a new state guard will be mustered in for emergency use and then certainly Janesville will be assigned as one of the military units.

Among Janesville young men who have answered orders to join their companies, are Harry Dutcher, instructor

TO CLOSE CONTRACT FOR ASPHALT PAVING

Brown and Connors Will Probably Lay Pavement on Oakland Avenue and Forest Park Boulevard.

The awarding of the paving contract for Oakland Avenue and Forest Park boulevard was an important matter of business scheduled for the council meeting this afternoon.

Indications are that the city commission will sign the contract with the Brown and Connors firm of this city, and will specify Bermuda asphalt.

Mayor Fathers and other members of the Board of Public Works expressed satisfaction in the plan that the bid by the Sargo company, and their claim that this asphalt was in the same class as Bermuda, was not sincere, in that Sargo was a natural asphalt producer, and as such, the agent of the Bermuda company, that the Sargo company had not bid in the state this year, claiming their product to be natural. It was alleged that asphalt was obtained from the oils, and enough asphalt was being produced to supply the required specifications. Gilsonite is pure asphalt, but it was pointed out that its commercial value was much too high for it to be used alone for asphalt paving, as it is used more for arts and manufacturing.

The percentage of Gilsonite that is used by the Sargo company in their bids is official and so far as is known, all the board members will recommend that the contract be awarded to the Bermuda makers.

The reason for the taking of the Bermuda in that it is four cents higher is that the city desires to lay the best type of asphalt-macadam practical on these two streets, as there is heavier traffic than on the other streets of this district, already paved with this material.

JANESVILLE BANKS HANDLE WAR FUNDS

Cashiers of Four Institutions to Act as Clearing Houses for European Strife Sufferers.

The cashiers of the four banks of Janesville from henceforth are to handle all local contributions for European war sufferers. People desiring to aid the sufferers of any nation are now given opportunity to deposit this money locally against further methods of sending it away from the city to relieve those whose war funds are being collected and forwarded from.

The donors, if they care, may designate the nation or people to which the money they extend it to go to. The understanding is that subscribers' wishes will be adhered to in every instance.

The cashiers have the four bank cashiers collect the funds in the result of a communication two weeks ago from Janesville Ministerial Association to the board of directors of the Janesville Commercial Club asking the latter to develop plans for collection of war relief funds locally. At the time the matter came before the directors it was tabled for the benefit of the cashiers. With the consent of the cashiers, the matter of collections locally will be greatly alleviated over formerly. No funds to be collected by the cashiers, however.

ASKS RECOGNITION FOR BOY GARDENERS

Commercial Civics Committee Desires
Members to Encourage Boys
Doing This Work.

Members of the civic committee of the Commercial club, of which A. P. Lovejoy is chairman, are at present considering some method of encouraging Janesville high and grade school boys doing garden work under the direction of A. B. West of the high school agriculture department. Mr. Lovejoy in his report to the board of directors yesterday stated that what little the committee was able to do last year was greatly appreciated by the boys. Mr. West stated that even this was great encouragement.

Mr. Lovejoy announced that a number of members of the committee have volunteered to go with Mr. West to visit the boys' gardens during morning hours in the summer.

The committee is considering either awarding prizes to the boys who do the best work, or supplying of buttons to each boy who is a member of Mr. West's garden class, or perhaps giving to each member, at the end of the season, an invitation to a general picnic or an automobile ride, or something of that nature.

However, this matter has not been worked out definitely, but it will be given further consideration by the committee.

Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulished coconut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoons will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulished coconut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

VICTOR HARRIS WEDS MISS CATHERINE L. RICHARDSON

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

New York, June 20.—Miss Catherine Lawrence Richardson and Victor Harris, somewhat well known composer and instructor in music, were married today at the Church of the Messiah.

The engagement was no surprise to many of the associates of Miss Richardson and Mr. Harris in various musical organizations.

Their romance began when Miss

Richardson, who has given much time to the cultivation of her voice, met Mr. Harris and they were frequently afterward when she became a member of the St. Cecilia choir, an organization of amateur vocalists of which Mr. Harris has been the conductor for several years.

Mr. Harris is widely known among music lovers in this and other cities. His songs are heard frequently at concerts and recitals and singing societies. The St. Cecilia club has sung his chorales.

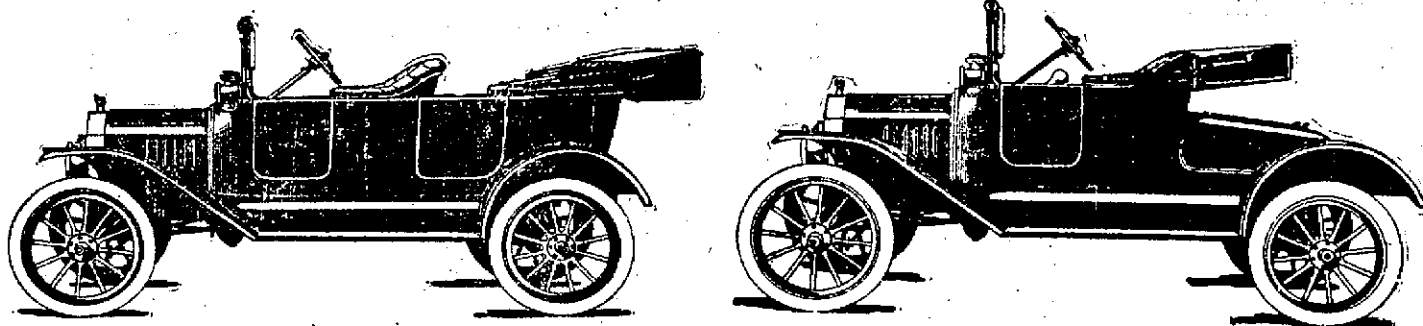

He Knew.

"The man is best governed who is least governed." "That's a man's theory," spoke up a henpecked husband. "The women have never subscribed to that as yet."

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

You can keep your hair at its very best by washing it with this simple, inexpensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff and dirt and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. Just use a teaspoonful of canthox dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterwards rinsing thoroughly with clean water. One finds that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is unstreaked, bright and fluffy, so fluffy in fact that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. All scalp irritation will disappear and the hair will be brighter than ever before.

WISCONSIN READY.

Dispatches announce that Governor

Phillips, on his sick bed at Milwaukee hospital, issued the necessary orders for the mobilization of the state troops of the Wisconsin National Guard at the call of the president.

The Badger state is ready. In fact has been for some months for those in authority long ago realized that the vacillating policy of the democratic administration would result in a situation similar to what has occurred.

Wisconsin is ready to send the required number of troops and more if needed. If the national guard is sent out of the state on this call a provisional guard will have to be organized and drilled to meet any emergency that may arise, either to increase the state's quota or for purposes at home. This is the opportunity for the state to obtain recognition and a dispatch from the national guard to a dispatch from the national guard to a dispatch from the national guard.

When the time comes Janesville will play its part like men and there should be no little difficulty in securing an organization of young men that would be a credit to the city.

Whether Janesville will be asked to furnish an infantry, a battery or a company in some other branch of the service is not yet known, but will be designated later when the official call is issued. There is, of course, the question of bonds for the company and such details that will be worked out later, but the fact remains that Janesville will probably have its military company within a very short time.

READY FOR ANYTHING.

Apparently the republican leaders are preparing for any and every event of an attack upon Hughes and his candidacy for the presidency.

The first attack came when congress discussed the advisability of passing a law prohibiting a justice of the supreme court from becoming a candidate. This was set at rest when the case of the democratic nominee of the New York bench, was nominated while a justice, accepted a justice and did not resign until after Hughes resigned his judgeship before accepting the nomination and in truth refused to take any part in the effort to nominate him on the part of the delegates. It has also been pointed out that Chief Justice John Jay, in the early days of our republic, accepted appointments while acting as justice to this is set at rest. Another line of attack will doubtless be that Hughes, even though he did bring about the insurance probe in New York state, protected some one higher up, before it was finished. This line of attack will be welcomed as the answer is most clear-cut and defined. The fact that the president has actually called out the state troops for duty on the Mexican border stills the talk that he has kept this country out of war even though we have not taken sides in the European contest. In fact, almost every available line of attack is safeguarded by the mere statement of facts and the Hughes campaign managers will be able to meet attacks by facts and figures and at the same time deliver striking counter-blows that will have telling effect. Meanwhile the plans for an active campaign of education of the people on the deficiencies of the present administration will be made and the result should be a republican victory at the polls next November.

COMES HOME TO ROOST.

The "watchful waiting" policy that led President Wilson to send a force of regulars and marines to Vera Cruz and then bring them back again, to permit repeated outrages along the Mexican border by armed bands of Mexican irregular troops, while he remained in Washington and wrote diplomatic notes to this "de facto" or "de jure" government has come home to roost.

In every state in the union the order has gone forth for the mobilization of the state national guard prepared for service on the Mexican frontier as border guards. In almost every city in the United States young men will be forced to leave their homes, their parents, their wives and their business and answer this call to duty.

Even if the troops do not get into any actual engagements, unless the national government is better prepared than the "watchful waiting" policy of the administration would lead the public to believe, the danger of lack of proper munitions will not only handicap the troops thus called into service, but may bring about similar results to those of '93 when so many died of disease, lack of proper munitions and medical care through the inefficiency of the officers in command of important departments of the service.

The United States does not want war with any nation, but it does not want its flag insulted, its citizens murdered, its women outraged without redress and pledges that such outrages will not be repeated. If the present administration had held onto Vera Cruz, had insisted upon a definite policy as regards Mexico and not vacillated like a weather cock in the wind, the present condition would not have arisen.

It was a mistake to go into Vera Cruz in the first place, but once there the troops should have remained there until assurances were given that Mexico was at peace and outrages would not be permitted. However, now the nation as a whole must make the best of the "peaceful" policy that has brought us nowhere and has made us the laughing stock of the civilized world and the target for the ignorant peons of Mexico who blindly follow leaders to kill the hated "gringo."

AN ERROR CORRECTED.

In reference to an editorial published Monday evening answering a communication from a resident of a rural district asking how the citizens of Janesville could expect the farmers to build good roads when they left some of their city streets in such condition they are, it is discovered that an injustice was unintentionally done. Superintendent of Streets P. J. Goodman. This official is doing all he can to repair and make over some of the thoroughfares that are an eyesore to the public.

North bluff street was referred to particularly. This street, it is learned, is being rapidly rounded into as good shape as possible, as fast as the weather will permit. Owing to the fact—an old excuse perhaps, but sufficient to delay the permanent improvement, just as it has for some time past—the street is not being paved because the surveyors of another of the numerous Janesville-Madison interurbans are surveying along its right of way and it is thought best to delay permanent improvement until it is decided whether they come in that route or not. We have had so many surveys made for interurbans in the past dozen years that the excuse is plausible, but while Commissioner Goodman is making what repairs he can it is not as permanent as a brick, macadam, asphalt or concrete road would be.

Reference was also made to the approaches to the power avenue. These two have been repaired as well as could be and it was an error to include them in the list. As to South Main street, doubtless that will be cared for, with its approaches as soon as possible. In fact, Commissioner Goodman is working as hard as he can to place the city streets in the best possible shape as quickly as possible.

There is no intention to do an injustice to any city official, but it does seem strange that "influence" always work out so that certain streets in certain localities do not receive permanent improvements, no matter how badly needed, but other localities are improved whether needed or not.

PREPAREDNESS.

"Nine days after the raid on Columbus the Ward line steamer Esperanza arrived in Vera Cruz with 1,350,000 rounds of ammunition, soft nosed or dum dum bullets, for the Carranza government," says the Chicago Tribune.

"On April 1, the Ward line steamer Monterey landed at Vera Cruz, 1,350,000 rounds of ammunition.

"On May 13, a month after the Carranzista garrison at Parral had attempted to ambush the advance guard of the American expeditionary troops under Major Tompkins, and had attacked them, the Esperanza landed at Vera Cruz 200,000 rounds of ammunition.

"During these months ammunition has been going over the border in quantities, as well as other supplies for Carranza troops.

"Our soldiers are now about to meet a large enemy force, armed and equipped by their own countrymen, with the permission of the government that is now sending them into the field. The American soldiers who die in battle will be shot by American bullets, propelled by American powder, from guns held by soldiers led by American food, supported by a government established through the influence of the American government."

Some glibful parents try to bribe the youngsters with promises of liberal supplies of ice cream if they will give up their July Fourth fireworks. Young America, however, with Spartan patriotism, sets his face against any such corrupt and degenerate bargain, the result of a decadent age.

About now Uncle Reuben, who had expected to get some help on the farm from the boys out of school, is called on to buy a new and stylish hammock.

The pictures of the congressmen are to be placed in the congressional directory, but it is not clear whether this will assist or injure their chances for re-election.

The supreme test of whether a man is willing to suffer neglect and obscurity comes when he officiates as a June bridegroom.

It is claimed the billion dollars invested in automobiles is idle capital, but the employment given the doctors and repair men is overlooked.

Why say the race of primitive Indians is extinct, when you can find plenty of them throwing rice at the June bride couples?

Even if the government should order the price of gasoline reduced, would the combine permit the order to be enforced?

June is the wedding season when a large number of men enter into subjection to the higher powers.

The degrees the college boys are most anxious for are not Ph. D., LL. D., or M. A., but P. B. or S. S.

Her fate.

A pretty thing attired in filmy lace. With studious and almost classic face.

So very staid and serious of mien. That it is very pleasant to be seen. She's weighted with responsibility. A message for the anxious world has she.

There are some wrongs she feels that she must right.

Upon this one and all important night.

She has it written down upon the scroll, a message which is written from the soul.

And it is very plain for all to see, She's going to read the valedictory.

The world's been going wrong since time began.

It's up to her to right her fellow man.

And start him in the way which he should go.

These are some things the shipshod world should know.

The time is ripe to peddle good advice.

And pearls of wisdom far beyond all price.

The night has passed, her paper has been read.

The world waits on and this fair maid is wed.

She then takes the advice all of her life.

Of some tall chap of whom she is the wife.

Alas, this is the melancholy fate Of nearly every sweet girl graduate.

Embarrassing Moments.

When the "collected" telegram comes and there isn't a cent in the house.

When the intended calls suddenly and the fair one's hair is all upstairs on her dresser.

When you take a rich uncle into a third stage for a glass of seltzer and the bartender calls you by your first name and asks you how long you have been on the water wagon.

When the groom suddenly remembers that he left the ring at home in his other vest pocket.

When the bride first finds out that the groom has been telling her enlarged stories about his salary.

When a person gets a sudden invitation to attend a dinner party after having garlic salad or boiled onions for dinner.

Just Keep Tryin'.

Hod Purty says we'll be a nation of paupers. The rich folks have got us, there's no doubt of it.

And at times there is a high-toned church wagon up in the papers, old Hod throws a fit.

Hank Tubbs says the trusts is the amount evil. I guess he read that word somewhere in a speech.

He says he can't manage to lay up a nickel and anyone who kin git rich is a peach.

Old Uncle Ch. Peter says he'll be dinged if he knows what this country is comin' to.

We're goin' to git shipwrecked, that much is dead sartin. We'll see before long his prediction is true.

You'd think, if you'd hear 'em, there's no joy in livin'. They're bleared pessimistic down there at the shore.

They seem to agree that the millennium's not comin' and that the sun ain't goin' to shine any more.

It's seemin' that way ever since I can remember. Each winter it's just a bit worse than the last.

It seems like there ain't nothin' left to demolish, they've snased up this country so off in the past.

This year it's a caution. Our end is approaching. That there's no escape every one will allow.

But still, I opine, if we keep on tryin' we're goin' to manage to gie on somehow.

SPIES.

The married men oft complain: Life's not all cheese and kisses; It's easier to miss a train Than 'tis to train a Mrs.

"Do I understand that you wish to swear out a warrant for the arrest of a certain Mrs. Kettle?" asked Magistrate Scarpes.

"Do, I mean, do you?" forcibly replied Mrs. Pott. "I'm tired of havin' her settin' at home takin' in every blessed gop on at my house through a pair of op'ry glasses."

"A very despicable act," agreed the magistrate. "I will prepare a warrant charging her with falsely misusing the air, forcible abstraction of others' news, and intent to be a busy-body."

"She's guilty of all o' that, an' more. Thank your honor," said Mrs. Pott with a courtesy.

And the indignant magistrate made out the warrant, and Mrs. Pott crossed her heart three times and swore to it.

"And now, may I ask," said Magistrate Scarpes, "did you discover her in this despicable practice?"

"Sure an' didn't I spy the brazen critter?" through me own op'ry glasses!" replied Mrs. Pott, triumphantly.

Whereat the man of law turned a back somersault of surprise and fined her $4.25 for taking up his time.

GERMANY IS HUNGRY

FOR DECENT FOODS

Press Correspondent at Rotterdam Declares Germany is in Dire Need of Real Food.

(By William G. Shepherd.)

Rotterdam, Holland, June 20.—Babies seven months of age are eating carrots, apples and spinach. Germany. Other folks beside babies are having food troubles. If you watch the consulates here and keep your eyes on the incoming trains you can meet, every day, a scant few persons who have just come from Germany and who will gladly tell you what experiences they have had in their journeys, dining rooms and stomachs since the food stringency in Germany became noticeable. These travelers feel themselves heroes, as, indeed, you come to regard them, in a manner of speaking, when you see them abandon themselves to a full man's sized meal here. Travelers in Berlin, especially the American writing kind, live at the best hotels. They retain rich stories of plentiful and excellent food. Berlin is the wartime show place of Germany, and the hotels where writers go are the wartime show places of Berlin. What the American writers have said of the plentifulness and the excellence of the food, is not necessarily true. Here in Rotterdam you get the truth, straight from the dining rooms and kitchens of civilian life in every part of Germany. It indicates that life in Germany is comfortable, highly so, for a civilian who is keeping house. Here's a Swedish mechanic from Germany, running packages of bacon, bottles of olive oil and rice. Perhaps the Hollanders will refuse him permission to take these things across the border, but I'm going to make a try of it," he says. Here's a pretty American girl, dining alone in a Rotterdam restaurant. She's studying music in Berlin. "I've just run over to Holland to spend a week eating," she says. Here's a Spanish woman with three little children. "I brought the baby down to get him some milk. He is tired of carrots, spinach and apples. No wonder, he is only seven months old. And here are Germans—Rich, elderly, retired Germans—who haunt the doorways of the hotel restaurants, waiting for the American plan dinner bell to ring and who seem to be always eating, even at the hated English tea hour. They are here a week. Then they go back to Germany. Germany, civilian Germany is hungry. Not hungry for victuals, because victuals are anything a human being can eat and digest, but for decent food like meat and wheat and milk and animal and vegetable fats.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Janesville, Wis., June 17, 1916.

Editorial: I noticed a little article in your Friday issue under the heading "To Continue Early Express Service."

The article as it appeared is not correct. This complaint, which was filed by the bakers, against the Wells Fargo & Co. Express, is not a count of their discontinuing the hauling of bread from these two bakeries for a year, or before 7 a. m.

The reason for discontinuing this wagon service was to try and improve the working conditions of the employees of Wells Fargo & Co., who, on account of this hauling, were compelled to commence work at 5:30 a. m., making a twelve hour day, while the employees of the American Express company work but ten hours.

As stated, a case of hurt feelings was expected, but, in the least, it would compel them to haul their shipments to the depot for these trains before 7 a. m.

It was expected that the company that the bakers would cooperate with them in an effort to improve the working conditions of these men, but instead of this they filed complaint with the railway commission.

The hearing before the commission never came off, as the express company, on seeing the opposition made by the bakers of making their wagon service from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m., voluntarily resumed their early morning service.

ONLY WORDS OF HIGHEST PRAISE

Mrs. P. May Can't Say Enough in Favor of Great Remedy Tanlac.

Mrs. P. May, who lives at 328 E. Merrill street, Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, has nothing but words of the highest praise for the great remedy Tanlac which has been of such benefit to her. She made the following statement recently:

"Tanlac has certainly made a new person of me and I am most grateful to the wonderful medicine. I was all run down and worn out and was not fit for anything before I started using Tanlac. I always felt tired and drowsy and lost sleep. I was so weak that I could hardly walk. I had a poor appetite and when I did eat anything I always suffered afterwards from sour stomach. I was quite nervous and did not sleep at all well at night.

"After seeing Tanlac advertised and hearing it praised so highly, I decided that it must be pretty good, so I got a bottle. I now feel better than I have felt in a long time. I have got rid of most of my troubles and have been built up in every way. I can eat what I want now and have a good appetite. I sleep better and feel stronger in every way. I hope others will try Tanlac and obtain the same favorable results that I did."

Tanlac may be obtained here at the Smith's Drug Store, 14 W. Milwaukee St.

THE NEW CLARION

"Now, let's all get down to business," Abner said, for the first time betraying a certain awkwardness. "Howard, I want to tell you something. "I don't want your money, Ab."

"So while I never talked it even to friends I have always thought I'd like to own a newspaper. I reckon I'd have had one before this, but I was afraid I couldn't run the whole shebang by myself. However, all your talk, Howard, about going off kept simmering in my mind till I got newspaper so much in my head that I had to take action. Now, you may think me a fool, but I've gone and bought a paper—at least, I've made a payment on one, and the deal is as good as closed. Now, what do you think? This is the way the matter stands. I'll make a born idiot of myself if I can't get a young man of brains to run the thing for me. I've bought what's left of the Clarion, and you'll cut out this trip of yours to the wild and woolly west and lay hold here with me while we do me a big favor."

The young couple stared incredulously. "Are you in earnest?" Howard asked, and Mary leaned forward, a blaze of understanding kindling in her eyes and face.

"Yes, I'm in earnest, and you've got to stick to me, my boy. You can make this thing fairly hum. You may have full swing. I'll trust it all to your judgment. We'll agree on the terms. All I expect would be a moderate rate of interest for the money invested, and you may have the rest."

Mary's eyes were full of tears. She started to speak, but choked up. Howard was deeply moved. "I'm not worthy of it, Uncle Ab. Of all things, it is what I'd like best, but I ought not to let you."

"Cut all that out," Abner said firmly. "You will not only give the Clarion new life, but between us we can build this town up. The place is in prime condition to get a boom on herself. She lies fine here at the meeting point of two railroads, and the new one that's talked of may be induced to head this way. A month from now Hillhouse won't know the New Clarion from a side of sole leather. The ready print paper must go to the scrap heap; every line in our paper must be printed at home so we can control our advertising space. Now you two talk it over while I run down to the washroom and get the dust out of my whiskers."

"Oh, isn't it good?" Mary all but sobbed when she and Howard were alone. "Howard, your mother will be the happiest woman in the world when she hears the news."

"It is a great opportunity," the young man answered, "and I'm going to do my best to prove myself worthy of Uncle Ab's confidence."

A step was heard in the corridor outside and Cora Langham and her mother came in. Howard rose to greet them, while Mary stared steadily out through the open door.

Immediately after dinner Abner went to the bank and thence down to the office of the Clarion. He found Hillhouse in the main room seated at his desk. A thing which had an ominous look to Abner was the ten dollar bill still lying on the table where he had left it. Abner bent over it without touching it, a resentful expression on his face.

"What's this—Confederate money?" he half laughed. "At first sight I took it for the greenback I laid there to clinch our trade. If it is genuine I'll put it in my hip pocket or weight it down with some'n or other."

"I don't want your money, Ab." "You say you don't? Well, that's a good trait in you. Hillhouse. Most folks in these days of graft will take any money they can lay hands on, but as you own this bill you needn't have any scruples. In fact, I've just come in to hand you a lot more. Here is fourteen hundred and ninety, as crisp as dry leaves round a campfire."

"I know I'm actin' like a baby," Hillhouse all but whimpered. "I know my own mind, Ab; but I've lived with a wishy-washy woman so long that I'm a slave to her whims. I want to sell out. I want to go in with Joe because it is the best chance I ever had, but my wife—"

"Your wife?" Abner said contemptuously.

Hillhouse said desperately: "After you left I went home to tell 'er, but I just couldn't do it. I found 'er amongst her flowers in the front yard. You know she's a great hand to cultivate fine roses. When I got to the gate she called my attention to a big yellow bush and said it would draw a prize in any show in the country. I let her talk a few minutes, then all at once she up and asked me if I had seen the fellows that was trying to get up the money to buy the Clarion. I told her I hadn't and asked her why she wanted to know."

"Because," said she, "there are a pretty pair of fools if they think I'd sell out my paper and move away from such a beautiful flower garden as this. They tell me that roses like these simple won't take root as far south as Augusta and that the houses of the city set so close together that each resident hasn't an inch of space to plant even a hill of beans."

CHAPTER V.

Abner and Mrs. Hillhouse. "WELL, there it rests," Hillhouse labored and was delivered of a deep groan as Abner sneered at him. "If I had told her about our talk—that I'd listen to your proposition with any notion of taking it up—well, she would have clawed my eyes out on the spot. I know the woman, Ab, and you don't. You never have lived with her."

"No, thank God—I mean, Hillhouse," Abner corrected quickly. "That she hasn't treated you half decent. You are the boss, or not to be. Scriptural somers lay down powerful strict laws ag'in women takin' a hand in what or to be run by the head of the family. Now, the trade is made betwixt us, and that ain't no way out of it on my part for reasons I won't go into. The receipt I hold over your name is as binding as any document that could be drawn up in any law office in the state."

"You say it is?" Hillhouse's face was full of yearning indecision. "Yes, the Clarion is mine, and you are lucky to get rid of it. Now, listen to me. You say you've lived with your wife, and I ain't. That's all so, but I'll bet a boss to a gingercake that I know 'er better'n you do. Now, I'll tell you what you will have to do. You'll have to work her so fine that she'll think she is sellin' the paper. She's been boss so long that whenever you take a hand she gets her dander up and squares herself ag'in it. That is at the bottom of the whole thing."

"That may be a good idea, but I can't do it," Hillhouse answered. "I know that everything that does happen is what she proposes. I can't recall a single thing that I ever mentioned that went through, while everything she hints at somehow goes right off the reel."

"Well, then, I'll have to help you out," Abner said with firmness. "I hain't paid for the work, but simply out of pity for you as a sufferin' man that I've known an' liked a long time. I'll take it in hand. Let me get at 'er. Is she at home now?"

"Yes"—Hillhouse raised a pair of doubtful eyes—"you'll find her in the front yard where I left her a minute ago. But, Ab, I want you to be careful. When she is opposed she sometimes has hysterics so bad that a doctor has to come. The last time I called in Dr. Stone he got mad at her for the way she went on. He told me that hysterics wasn't no actual disease, but was just imagination and the way some women have of letting off steam. He came powerful near saying that it was what was meant by the evil spirits our Saviour used to cast out. She was lying there to all appearances unable to talk and making signs when he come in."

"He took one look at her and sniffed. He called me out of the room and said: 'She can talk as well as anybody. Nothing is the matter with her. I can't charge for visits like these, and I don't want to be called away from important cases when I don't do some good. Now just get me a glass half full of water. Watch me close, and the next time she acts this way you administer the same treatment.'"

"I thought he was going to give her a dose of some soothing mixture, for he had his siddlings with him, but I was mistaken. When I brought the water he hid the tumbler behind him and went in and stood over her. Then he asked her to sit up straight, and she did, he still keeping the tumbler out of sight. She hadn't more than reached an upright position when he dashed the water smack dab in her face. Oh, wasn't she mad? She hopped out of bed and told him if he ever darkened that door again she would have the law on him."

"Well, I have cured you, haven't I? Doc grinned. 'And I ain't going to charge for it.' And with that he left her mopping her face with a towel, madder than any wet hen you ever saw."

"I'll bet you never used the treatment," Abner commented dryly. "You hain't got backbone enough." "No, I never did, to tell the truth," Hillhouse responded. "The treatment is simple an' cheap, and it worked like a charm in my wife's case, but a doctor is a privileged character. No, if you are going to talk to her, Ab, you must keep your wits about you. I hope you will accomplish something, but I don't feel at all sure about it. My wife is a strong willed woman, and she has had her way a good many years."

In the front yard of a simple cottage near by Daniel saw the object of his visit. She was a tall, thin woman, with blue eyes, sparse chestnut hair and almost bloodless skin. She stood up, a garden trowel in hand, a short piece of twine between her drawn lips, as Abner leaned on the gate.

"Good morning," Sister Hillhouse, he smiled. "Don't let me stop you at your work. I was just passin'. I was in at the Clarion just now. Your husband says you run the house, and I loved to see you'd like to buy some of my prime smoke cured hams." "We don't need any," she answered cordially. "We have been using sugar cured hams from Chicago. The merchants here advertise with us, you know, and we feel that we ought to deal with them."

"Biggest mistake you ever made," Abner unlatched the small gate and went in, ostensibly to examine and smell a certain rose. "You ort to know, Sister Hillhouse, that our old fashioned smokehouse meat is miles ahead of the quick cured stuff that is shipped by the carload from the west. Why, you ort to be out our way an' see how we do it. We hang the upper part of the smokehouse full of hams, shoulders, sides, spiced an' peppered sausage in clean inside corn shucks, and then we make a fire in the center out of seasoned hickory wood an' chips as dry as powder. We close the house tight an' keep the fire goin' for days an' days. A Chicago meat drummer stopped one day to see the process, and he told me that his stuff was just smoked barely enough to stain the outside a little tawny bit. He said that of western meat was smoked as thoroughly as mine that you folks would have to pay a dollar a pound for it. You see, wood ain't no object to us out our way, what we are constantly clearin' up new ground, and, as for the bother of keepin' the fire goin', a child could attend to it, though a body has to make quick runs in an' out, holdin' the breath, to put chips on. I declare I'd rather see the smoke oozin' out betwixt the shingles of a smokehouse than any sight I ever looked at."

"I know your hams must be delicious, but—"

"They are as sweet as sugar on the tongue," Abner went closer to the porch as he interrupted her. Two chairs in the shade behind the honeysuckle vines looked inviting. "Take a seat and rest, Mr. Daniel," Mrs. Hillhouse now bethought herself to say, and as he accepted and doffed his hat she went on: "About the hams. Old fashioned cures do seem to be passing out of use. Folks buy so many fancy things put up in cans here lately. I'll think over your meat and let you know. I noticed in the Clarion not long ago that you took a trip away."

Where did you go?" She had seated herself by him and was divesting her thin hands of the cotton gloves she wore while doing garden work.

"Oh, I went everywhere, it seems to me"—he was laying his hat carefully on the floor at his side—"north, west an' south, stopped quite awhile in Augusta. By the way, that's a pretty town, Sister Hillhouse—got the widest, shadiest avenues you ever laid eyes on. The big, fine houses, set away back on wide lawns as green an' level as a billiard table, with grass clipped as close as a convict's hair; an' roses! Oh, my! Joe Hillhouse's wife, June, your sister-in-law, has oceans of 'em both summer an' winter. I used to go to school with Joe over in Glimer, an' he made me put up overnight at his new mansion. I felt a little like a yahoo at that fine table, with all them glitterin' dishes an' silver contraptions. Jane is a wonderful up to date woman, jest the wife for a risin' man like Joe."

Dinner Stories

David and Walter had not met in some time and one morning when they boarded the same car they began a chat of old times.

"And when is your marriage to Carolyn Hathaway coming off, Dave?" queried Walter.

"It has been postponed indefinitely," replied David.

"Is that so?" said Walter, in surprise. "What's the trouble?"

"She married another fellow."

"I had a hot argument with Jiggs last night. I was trying to convince him that we had an army of at least half a million."

"You were wasting your breath arguing with Jiggs. His idea of preparedness is a pair of running shoes."

Didn't Expect To Live

In a letter to the Pinus laboratories, Mrs. G. O. Walker, of Walker, Lane County, Oregon, writes:

"I have been taking Fruitola and it has been a great relief. I suffered so with gallstones my family and friends didn't expect me to live."

Fruitola is a powerful intestinal lubricant and softens the hardened particles that cause so much suffering, expelling the congested matter in an easy, natural manner, to the sufferer's great relief. A single dose is usually sufficient to clearly indicate its efficacy. To build up and restore the weakened, run-down system, Traxo is highly recommended as a tonic-alterative that acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Janesville they can be obtained at J. P. Baker, 123 West Milwaukee St.

and an armor backed vest."

Far out from the village, in the middle of a lonely moor, a wayfarer was stopped by a footpad and relieved of his valuables. And all the time the thief smiled and smiled.

"What are you smiling at?" demanded the victim at last, angered by that smile.

"Oh, nothing special," replied the thief lightly. "It's only that I'm one of those chaps who can't take things seriously."

Sunday morning service was over.

and three prominent members of the church walked home together, discussing the sermon.

"I tell you," said the first, enthusiastically, "our pastor can certainly dive deeper into the truth than any preacher I ever heard."

"Yes," said the second man, "and he can stay under longer."

"Yes," said the third, "and come up dryer."

RUSSET-BACKED THRUSH

(Hylocichla ustulata)

Length, seven and one-fourth inches. Among thrushes having the top of head and tail nearly the same color as the back, this one is distinguished by its tawny eye-rings and cheeks. The Pacific coast subspecies is russet brown above, while the other subspecies is the olive-backed thrush. The remarks below apply to the species as a whole.

Range: Breeds in the forested parts of Alaska and Canada and south to California, Colorado, Michigan, New York, West Virginia (mountains), and Maine; winters from Mexico to South America.

Habits and economic status: This is one of a small group of thrushes the members of which are by many ranked first among American songbirds. The several members resemble one another in size, plumage, and habits. While this thrush is very fond of fruit, its partiality for the neighborhood streams keeps it from frequenting orchards far from water. It is most troublesome during the cherry season, when the young are in the nest. From this it might be inferred that the young are fed on fruit, but such is not the case. The adults eat fruit, but the nestlings, as usual, are fed mostly upon insects. Beetles constitute the largest item of animal food, and ants come next. Many caterpillars also are eaten. The great bulk of vegetable food consists of fruit, of which two-fifths is of cultivated varieties. Where these birds live in or near gardens or orchards, they may do considerable damage, but they are too valuable as insect destroyers to be killed if the fruit can be protected in any other way.

PLAYING THE 'SECOND FIDDLE'

Positions in Life Very Much as It Is in the Orchestra That Are Designed to Amuse.

When I was a lad, I used to hear the expression more frequently than I do now, that a certain man was "playing second fiddle," or that he "would not play second fiddle to any man," or something of that sort.

Playing second fiddle is a curious expression. Last night I attended a beautiful concert of our symphony orchestra. At the conductor's left hand, sits the first violinist. Grouped beside and behind him are the rest of the first violins. On the other side of the conductor sit the second violinists. There were just about as many of them, and they were called upon to play what seemed to be just as difficult music. There were times when the first violins were not playing at all, and the melody was being carried by the second violins, at other times, they were carrying their own part, without which the first violins would not have sounded like much.

And is not that like life? People that we call second fiddlers are part of the orchestra that makes life's music. The more prominent people are helpless without them; there are times when they carry the real melody. Who the nurse of Carlyle was we do not know, but if there had not been a nurse there would have been no Carlyle. Washington's advisers seldom come to our minds, but he would have made dismal failures without them. Someone may be far more visible in your society than you are, but he cannot stay there unless you and others like you do your own quiet part. You can afford to play second fiddle, or anything else, to keep the music going.—Cleveland B. McAfee.

PHILLIES WIN FIRST GAME FROM BROOKLYN

Luderus' Home Run Wins Game.—Yankees by Baker's Hitting Beat the Cleveland Team.

Philadelphia beat Brooklyn in the first game of their series at Brooklyn Monday by the score of 3 to 2. A down-pour of rain prevented the second game. Luderus' home run over the right field wall after Whitford had singled, won the game for the Phillies. Alexander and Pfeiffer each allowed nine hits, but the Philly star was remarkably good in the pinches. The field was snappy, considering the fielding conditions on the wet diamond.

The New York Americans made it three out of four by beating Cleveland, 4 to 6, at Cleveland. Five runs in the first inning gave the Yanks a good lead, and not until the fifth were the Indians able to tie up the score when they drove Caldwell from the mound. Baker's home run accounted for three runs, and his single in the seventh counted the winning score.

Both Chicago teams will be in action today, the Cubs meeting Cincinnati at Chicago. The Nationals are filled with confidence of climbing as they won six and lost four on their road trip, and their pitchers are coming into winning form. As long as the Cubs continue their hitting, and have a little help from the pitchers, they should maintain their winning stride. Their pace, however, has not been consistent enough to place them close enough to the top to endanger Cleveland.

Ed Walsh worked five innings against Waukegan yesterday and not a score did the city team make against him. The Sox won the game 5 to 2. The Waukegan nine scored two runs off of Blitzen Joe Benz. The Sox play St. Louis at St. Louis today.

MEMBERS OF CREWS WHO WILL RACE SATURDAY ARE GIVEN TIME TO DON UNIFORM

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

New Haven, Conn., June 20.—The order for the mobilization of the Yale battalion, Tenth militia field artillery, Connecticut National Guard, issued on Monday, threatened the cancellation of the Yale-Harvard crew race scheduled for next Saturday at New London. The matter was adjusted by the grant of a temporary leave of absence to members of the Yale crew who are enlisted in the battalion.

Seth Lusk, captain of the eight; Morris Hadley, son of the president of Yale; Robert Gilliland and Reginald Coombe, the last named an assistant coach, are the men affected. The grant of leave was finally accomplished through the intervention of President Hadley of Yale.

Without exception, rowing men are picking Harvard to beat Yale when the two crews and their rowing season on the Thames. This confidence is the result of the Crimson's uniformly good rowing all year, and of Yale's poor work. Harvard was beaten by Princeton in a race which was just as good as a dead heat. Then the Crimson beat Cornell decisively. Yale in the meantime hasn't had an opportunity to know what a victory tastes like.

Ever since the defeat by Cornell and Princeton there has been consternation in the Yale camp. After the magnificent victory of Yale a year ago the followers of the Elis believed that their crew would be invincible this year, but instead they have been beaten right and left. Anything is possible in college rowing, so there is a chance that Yale will yet rise to the occasion. It will be a bitter dose for Guy Nickalls if his crew is beaten by Harvard.

BILL JOHNSTON, TENNIS CHAMP, WILL HAVE TOUGH TUSSLE WITH NEW STARS

William M. Johnston, the tennis champ of last season, will have to battle to retain his title this year. There have arisen a number of brilliant youngsters who promise to make trouble for the champ and possibly scamp away with his crown. Harold Throckmorton and Willet Davis in the east look most formidable, and Roland Roberts, a coast player, is a new star who may vex the champ. Of course there is also Maurice McLaughlin, Elia Botwell, Giffin, Strachan and others who are going to make a hot sport after Johnston.

MORRIS MILLER

Although Fred Fulton may not be anything like the wonder his backers would have the public believe, it is rather early to pronounce him a failure. It is a difficult matter to predict correctly the future of a novice and heavyweights in particular are deceptive in the early stages. For some unknown reason the big fellows never do acquire as much skill and science as the lighter men. Even Champion Willard would be no better than a third-rater if he were chopped down to lightweight proportions. Because the heavies naturally are slow and clumsy they look particularly bad at first, and there are few experts who have not been badly fooled by some dud who looked like a champion or some real fighter who failed to impress at the outset of his career.

The mere announcement that Tris Speaker is leading the American league in batting, forty points out beyond Tyus Raymond Cobb, does not give a real insight into the phenomenal work the Texan has accomplished this spring for Cleveland. Tris is not only the leading batter in the league, he is the leading run scorer, the leading slugger and ranks ninth in base stealing.

JOHN COLLINS' FAST GAME BIG HELP TO WHITE SOX IN THEIR COME-BACK

John Collins.

The return of John Collins to the White Sox outfield with Jack Ness to cover first will give the Sox the strongest line-up they have been able to arrange. Collins had been playing the game of his life in the outfield when he was called in to cover first and the change slowed up the team. Since Jack Ness' reinstatement White Sox hopes are rising.

When it is borne in mind that on the defense speaker, outclasses Cobb and every other outfielder in the game, it can be best understood what his transfer to Cleveland meant to the Indians and their new owners. The $50,000 Cleveland is supposed to have paid for Tris is insignificant when his value to the club is figured out. It is estimated that the new magnates stand a good chance of making $100,000 on their investment this season.

The Cincinnati Reds are to have a new pitcher. He is Dr. Earl Twining, who won fame at Swarthmore college, where he graduated from the college ball team with the degree of S. P. (some pitcher) and also M. D. In spite of his assertion last winter that the Browns would win the American league pennant, Fielder Jones now admits that he doesn't expect to climb into the first division for some time to come.

No deal in the history of base ball has brought such big returns so quickly as has the deal which brought Tris Speaker to Cleveland. Owner Dunn must have all that $50,000 back now, and the season is only three months old.

Base ball owners are unpatriotic. Although thirty-six corporations have permitted their employees to take the thirty-day training course at the various military league camps this summer, not one major league president offers his players the same privilege.

Bert Niehoff, for a player of whom little is heard, is doing pretty well. In one of the games of the Phillies-Cards series all he did in a batting way was to land a homer, a double, and two singles, and he might be noted that one of his hits drove in the winning run.

Manager Joe Tinker announced as the reason for not taking Pitcher Claude Hendrix on the trip east that the Cubs had to be cut to twenty-one men, but the scribes could not help noting that Mike Prendergast was lifted from the inactive list and taken along. As a matter of fact, Hendrix has pitched such bad ball that he is of no use to the club.

Manager Joe Tinker wants a second baseman and doesn't care who knows it. Hints have been coming out of Boston that indicate he is feeling out the prospects for getting John Evers. He also has made Columbus an offer for Pete Johns, who had a trial with the White Sox last fall, but the Columbus club has refused to part with the player.

The efforts to furnish an alibi in the incident of one gambler shooting another over a bet at Braves Field recently are amusing. One Boston writer says Eddie Mack (the gambler shot) had a sack of peanuts in his pocket and that in reaching for a cooler he accidentally pulled the trigger of the revolver he always carried. The weapon exploded and Mack shot himself in the thigh.

Because he had outgrown Pullman berths, Otis Crandall had to be put on the waiver list by Fielder Jones.

PROBABLY BECAUSE EVERY FACTORY IS UNDER THE SUPERVISION OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT THAT INSURES ITS PURITY.

THE average tobacco chewer's complaint is not lack of purity but too much sweetening that makes him spit too much. Buy a 10c pouch of W-B CUT Chewing and give it the quality test. The player has expended a lot of energy; is hot through and through and a glass of beer will do him good.
